Civil War Veteran in Jail. A one-legged man from Plainfield, and a Civil War veteran, 78, whose valor and dignity of age are overcast by human frailties, were taken to the jail on Saturday following sentence of Judge Barnes in city court for drink-ing. The one may look forward to Noroton, and the Soldiers' home, the other, deficient but not from patriotism, appears to be a social burden. A Montville man paid a fine for the same offense.

BUILDING CONVENT IN MERIDEN. Contractor William A. Campion, Formerly of Norwich, is Progressing In That City.

iceable, value $1.00

Concerning the work of a former Norwich young man, William A. Cam-pion, who has been successfully en-gaged in Meriden for two years as a contractor, a Meriden newspaper speaks as follows:

St. Joseph's parish will soon have a onvent, and it will be one with which the members will be pleased.

John T. Lynch, pastor, is now ha the dwelling purchased from Henry Mather and used the past year for school purposes remodeled and put in first class condition for a home for the disters who will teach in the new parochial school on West Main street and do other work in the parish.

After the dwelling was bought was moved to the rear of the lot make room for the new school and was set facing Maple street. The site is an ideal spot for a convent, being near both school and church, and it is in one of the pleasant sections of the West Side.

Workmen in the employ of Contrac-tor William Campion are now en-gaged altering the interior. The partitions are being removed on the three floors and the inside of the building will present an entirely different ap-pearance when the work is completed, On the first floor there will be a reception room, a large dining room and a kitchen; on the second floor fifteen bed rooms, a chapel and a bath room, and on the third floor, bed rooms and a bath room. The latest in plumbing work is be-ing installed, and the building, will be lighted by electricity. It is expected the convent will be ready for occupancy when the new parochial school is opened next month for the fall term. It is figured it will take about two months to finish the remodeling.
